About the program

Since its inception in 2012, the Avant Doctor in Training Research Scholarship Program has supported life-changing research to promote better patient outcomes and advance the careers of some of Australia's promising medical researchers.

Started in response to the difficulties young doctors face in securing research funding, the program has so far awarded 59 scholarships worth $1.65 million. Scholarships have supported research across a wide range of topics including organ transplantation, epidemiology, hepatology, oncology, obstetrics, cardiology and general surgery, with 28 research projects completed to date.

In 2017 Avant will offer $450,000 in funding across a total of 20 scholarships and grants for full-time, part-time and short-term research projects.

Full-time scholarships

Full-time scholarships ($50,000) must be conducted on a full-time basis, usually over a 12-month period.

Part-time scholarships

Part-time scholarships ($25,000) are usually conducted over a 12-month period. The student should not be in paid employment of more than 0.6 full-time equivalent.

Grants

Grants providing financial assistance ($12,500) for short-term research projects usually less than 12-months duration.
